

ANNE MEREDITH, the romantic Lilly Trevor of the play, refuses Jimmy Shannon because she dreams of a love that comes down from the brave days of old.

CARROLL MCCOMAS, the main chance. She refuses Jimmie's businesslike proposal because she loves him, but wins him and his millions nevertheless.

FLORENCE DESHON, as Florence Jones, spurns Jimmie because he is without the slightest impulse of the cave man—and she must have a cave man.

The $12,000,000 Lovemaking Gamble in "Seven Chances" Has a Pretty Girl for Every $1,714,285.71.

Photos by Count Jean de Striebeck.

GLADYS KNORR, who plays Georgiana Garrison, feels impelled to refuse because she is already engaged to a man who has promised her sure-enough love and a four-room apartment.

FRANK CRAVEN is the distressed Jimmie Shannon, bachelor and woman hater, who is obliged to choose a wife within twenty-four hours in order to inherit a fortune of $12,000,000.

EMILY CALAWAY, who, as Peggy Wood, assumes a throaty voice to please Jimmy, but cannot regard with equanimity his ideal of a home with ten children.

BEVERLY WEST, the sixteen-year-old Irene Trevor, just out of school, proposes to Jimmie, but reconsiders when she realizes she must forego her good times with schoolboy friends.

ALICE CARROLL, who plays the practical Betty Brown, looks with favor upon the twelve million, but can't see Jimmie as a husband, despite the money.